The Four Freshmen

THE FOUR FRESHMEN'S profound influence on American pop singing began in 1948 with four students at Butler University in Indianapolis, Indiana. Hal Kratzsch, brothers Ross and Don Barbour, and their cousin Bob Flanigan created a brand new vocal sound. Working without written music and choosing notes by ear, they spread their jazz voicing over a wider range than other groups, and they imitated the phrasing and aggressive feel of a big band brass section. THE FOUR FRESHMEN continue to bring their unique brand of vocal harmony to audiences worldwide. The names and faces have changed a few times along the road, but the legendary sound continues under the watchful eye of original member Bob Flanigan....

Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians

Countless people remember with nostalgia the tradition of Guy Lombardo with his Royal Canadians playing at New York City's Waldorf Astoria on New Year's Eve. Even after the death of Lombardo in 1977, "Auld Lang Syne" at the stroke of midnight continues to be a tradition as it is performed by various bands before enthusiastic audiences throughout the world. Besides their signature song, the most important ingredient of the GUY LOMBARDO ORCHESTRA was its consistency in playing wonderful tunes like "Seems Like Old Times", "Boo Hoo", "Coquette", "Sweethearts on Parade" and "Ain't She Sweet", all written by Carmen Lombardo.

"Johnson Rag", "Bye Bye Blues", and "Enjoy Yourself" are recognizable Royal Canadian tunes.

Under Al Pierson's leadership Guy Lombardo's music lives on!
